ROOSEVELT DEFENDS HIS FARM PLAN

Justice to Dwellers of Cities Assured As Profiteers Hard Hit

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(P)—Assurance of justice to city dwellers under the administration farm relief program was voiced today by President Roosevelt in a talk to the American Farm Bureau Federation convention.

Cracking down on the "Political Profiteer," the "dispensers of discord," and the "calamity howlers," the president spoke confidently of the "broad recovery program;" endorsed the new Canadian trade treaty and stated that the farm program has actually given consumers "net benefits."

"The thing we all are seeking," he said, "is justice in the common sense interpretation of that word—the interpretation that means 'do unto your neighbor as you would be done by.'"

Governor Horner of Illinois and Mayor Kelly of Chicago welcomed the president as his special train arrived near the stock yards amphitheater where the farm meeting was in session.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the farm federation, walked to the platform with Mr. Roosevelt and a roaring welcome to the convention. O'Neal introduced Secretary Wallace for just a word before the president spoke.

The huge amphitheater structure, for which 15,000 admission tickets had been given, out, was completely filled.

The president began by complimenting the farmers for the improvement of their organized forces since he last made a farm address here in 1929.

Smiling broadly at the huge crowd that greeted him, he reminded his hearers that six years ago they had gathered "in a very small hotel room."

Relating the years of depression, he asserted "justice and old-fashioned common sense demanded that in the building of purchasing power we had to start with agriculture."

Declaring that the nation's "life is coming back—buoyant, happy life—we need no evidence beyond what we see and hear around us," he was cheered by the farmers.

"You're going to give the president the greatest reception he ever had," Homer Rodheaver, familiar to the farmers as the platform companion of the late Billy Sunday, famous revivalist, assured the farmers, and half of them rose from their seats in an approving roar.

Banners of States, excepting 36 states banners strung around the face of the enclosing balcony, and an American flag on the speakers' platform, the great gray amphitheater was without decoration.

The president said that the administration farm program "originated in the aspirations of the farmers themselves expressed through the several farm organizations."

"We sought to stop the rule of tooth and claw that threw farmers into bankruptcy or turned them virtually into serfs."

Attacks on speculators drew

Albert B. Fall, Harding Cabinet Member, Is Ill

EL PASO, Dec. 6.—(P)—Bronchial pneumonia has developed in the lower left lung of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, hospital officials announced today. His condition is serious.

Two daughters, Mrs. Joseph Elliott and Mrs. C. C. Chase, were at the hospital, where their father has been a patient for several weeks.

EL PASO, Dec. 9.—(P)—Albert B. Fall clung to life today after a relapse physicians, feared would prove fatal.

The 74-year-old secretary of interior under President Harding allied late last night after members of his family had been summoned hastily.

Col. H. F. Pipes, government hospital commandant, reported Fall "was gaining ground," and appeared in no immediate danger.

Fall, who served a prison term for accepting a bribe in the Teapot Dome oil scandal, has been ill for months, suffering heart disease, pleurisy, arthritis of the spine, and general ill health.

Mrs. Fall, notified at Clarksville, Tex., where she had gone on business, was expected to reach her husband's bedside late today.

COTTON CROP SHOWS SHARP DECLINE IN FEDERAL ESTIMATE

OVER FOUR HUNDRED THOUSAND BALES LESS THAN FORECAST MONTH AGO

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(P)—The agriculture department today estimated the 1935 cotton crop at 10,734,000 bales, a reduction of 407,000 bales or about 3.7 per cent from the forecast a month ago.

The 1935 crop estimated today is about 1,098,000 bales greater than production in 1934.

Most of the decline in production estimates during the past 30 days occurred in Texas and Oklahoma where weather conditions were reported unfavorable for the maturing and picking of the late crop.

The harvested acreage, now estimated at 27,331,000 acres is about 1.3 per cent greater than the total harvested in 1934.

The average yield per acre this year was reported to be 188 pounds compared with 170.9 pounds in 1934 and a 10-year average, 1924-33 of 177.1 pounds.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(P)—The 1935 cotton crop was estimated today at 10,734,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight each by

RIOTING IN CAIRO PUT SCORE STUDENTS IN HOSPITALS THERE

POLICE FINALLY FORCED TO FIRE INTO MOB OF DEMONSTRATING YOUTHS

By GAYLE TALBOT
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)

CAIRO, Dec. 9.—(P)—A girl student was struck in the head by a bullet fired by police today, as renewed anti-British rioting spread near to Opera Square, the location of large European hotels.

The girl, 15-year-old Negia Hassan, was wounded when several hundred boys and girl students clashed with native police in the residential street called Kasr-el-Nil.

Police fired into the crowd which seized six street cars and held up traffic.

In half a dozen sections of the city, scores of students were arrested after stoning buses and damaging street lights.

Twenty-one youths were placed in hospitals because of injuries received in the encounters. Several police were wounded by stones hurled from roofs and balconies.

Police cruised streets in trucks, while Egyptian soldiers armed with rifles were held in readiness on the outskirts of the riot districts.

Navy shops were closed behind riot shutters.

Flood Waters Buffalo Bayou Receding After Doing Great Damage

HOUSTON, Dec. 9.—(P)—Floodwaters of the normally sluggish Buffalo bayou receded slowly today, leaving in their wake one known death, several reported drownings and property damage estimated at more than $2,000,000.

The stream, which empties into the Houston ship channel, went on a rampage late Saturday after torrential rains had fallen in northern Harris county, of which Houston is the county seat.

The flooded bayou inundated 100 blocks of Houston, including a large area of the downtown section.

So far, only one death in the swirling torrent had been confirmed but there were reports of several others whose lives were feared to have been lost.

The known victim was a Bay City man, Arnold Holub, 26, who fell into the West Bernard river while trying to walk the railing of a submerged bridge.

A railway clerk, Raymond Wilkins, told of seeing the body of a white man floating down the bayou while he and another man were cruising in a motor boat near the foot of Main.

Wilkins endeavored to recover the body but the current carried it away.

Another report of disaster came from Gladys Wade, negro, who said she saw two negro men and two or three negro children whose boat capsized during an attempted rescue.

After the boat overturned in the swift current, she said, the occupants disappeared.

Meanwhile, the lowering water enabled building owners to gain an idea of damage caused by the flood—the worst to hit Houston in 25 years. The city market was under water, lower floors of many buildings were submerged and streets over a vast area were running torrents.

Building Collapses.
T. B. Dixon, in charge of Packing Company said the three-story brick building occupied by the B. A. Reinsler Steel Company at Milam and Congress streets had collapsed. It was a three-story building, weakened by the flood, would give way and tumble in ruins.

Lester Beal said he saw a "light-haired boy about 12 years old" drown in the rising bayou here yesterday. Sightseers on the Main street viaduct also said an unidentified man sank as he attempted to swim from a business building which was being threatened

President Given Agriculture Award Greatest Service

CHICAGO, Dec. 9.—(P)—President Roosevelt today received the American Farm Bureau Federation's annual award for distinguished and meritorious services in the interest of organized agriculture.

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the federation, presented the award, comparable to the distinguished service cross in military circles. Fourteen persons in the United States have been so honored by the federation.

In making the presentation, O'Neal lauded the chief executive as "a man whose labors have been for the American farmer, and won him the plaudits of the world."

Woman Admits Beating Man to Death in Rage

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 9.—(P)—Police found Dr. Walter F. Hammond, 62, beaten to death with a hammer in his home and arrested Mrs. Mabel Willis, 38, today.

Radio Patrolman Lloyd Hurst and D. R. Patton said the woman told them she had killed Hammond yesterday in a drunken rage.

They said Mrs. Willis told them she had lived for eight years with the victim, a prominent Los Angeles dentist.

MUSSOLINI ASSERTS ITALIAN INTERESTS WILL BE DEFENDED

ROMAN DICTATOR DECLARES
NATION READY; NO YIELDING ATTITUDE SHOWN

ROME, Dec. 9.—(P)—Premier Mussolini declared to his senate today: "Italian interests, both African and European, will be defended strenuously."

Il Duce spoke only two minutes. He was heard not only by the senators but by six members of the royal house and every member of the cabinet except Count Galeazzo Ciano, minister of propaganda, who is serving as an aviator against Ethiopia.

The princes present were Crown Prince Umberto, the Dukes of Aosta, Spoleto, Genoa and Ancona and the Count of Turin.

Mussolini made no reference to the new peace plan reported reached between Great Britain and France.

Everyone present awaited some tone that might indicate either an unyielding attitude or conciliation but there was only one phrase in the speech that might apply either to Italy's stand in the negotiations or to the carrying on with the war and with resistance to League of Nations sanctions.

He thanked the senate for its "unanimous vote" for the African war expenses. The bill ratifies Mussolini's decree of Aug. 23 appropriating 2,500,000,000 lire—about $200,000,000.

This unanimitously he said, showed that the few remaining senators who occasionally vote against the fascist government had joined the government in approving the campaign.

Mussolini's speech was only 59 words long. Translated into English, it consisted of:

"I thank the senate for the unanimity of the vote and for the significance of the demonstration which accompanied it."

"Once again this assembly has shown itself to be equal to the task which life and history give a progressing nation."

The senate may be certain that Italy, after the war, both African and European, will be defended strenuously."

SHOUTED CHARGES OF "LIAR" AT OPENING LABOR-INDUSTRY MEET

GEORGE L. BERRY, FEDERAL OFFICIAL, MAKES CHARGE AGAINST INTERRUPTER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(P)—Shouted charges of "liar" between industry and government spokesmen today gave a tumultuous opening to the business conference summoned by Geo. L. Berry, President Roosevelt's co-ordinator for industrial co-operation.

As more than 2,000 industry-labor representatives milled about in the large commerce department auditorium, John W. O'Leary, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and head of the Machinery & Allied Products Institute, sought to obtain recognition.

Berry, in a non-handed decision, refused to give O'Leary the floor. The same treatment was accorded other industrial representatives seeking to prolong the meeting with speeches after Berry concluded his opening address.

Then A. P. Haake of Chicago, who said he represented the National Furniture Manufacturers' Association, leaped from his chair and demanded recognition.

After he had been advised to do his talking before a round-table conference, he remanded "the

Last Avenue Escape Electrocution Closed Lindbergh Kidnap

By JAMES W. DOUTHAT
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(P)—Almost the last avenue of escape from electrocution was closed to Bruno Richard Hauptmann today when the supreme court refused to review his conviction of kidnaping and murdering the Lindbergh baby.

In an atmosphere aquiver with the prospect of arguments about to begin over the AAA, the court made known its decision through the one word—"Denied."

It was contained in a long list of court "orders," telling whether appeals from lower tribunals would be reviewed.

Only court attaches and newspapermen knew of the all-important word affecting the Bronx carpenter. It was no read aloud.

Hauptmann's attorneys had announced previously that, in the event a review was refused, they would seek a new trial if new evidence could be found and would appeal for a commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment.

UNITED STATES IN REDUCTION PLEA FOR TONNAGE OF NAVIES

JAPANESE DELEGATE SETS
FORTH HIS COUNTRY'S DEMAND FOR EQUALITY

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press.)

LONDON, Dec. 9.—The United States today proposed a 20 per cent reduction in the world's great navies but Japan immediately rejected the plan.

This rejection was announced to a press conference by Admiral Osami Nagano, the chief Japanese delegate to the international naval conference which opened today.

Admiral Nagano said such a cut of the existing treaty tonnage would only prolong the ratio system by which Japan is limited to three-fifths the naval power maintained by either the United States or Great Britain and that therefore it was not acceptable to Japan.

Norman H. Davis, the chief American delegate, told the representatives of Japan, Great Britain, France, and Italy, that President Roosevelt advocated the progressive reduction of naval armaments.

Admiral Nagano demanded the abolition of the ratio system of naval limitation as a prerequisite to any naval agreement. It was a reiteration of Japan's consistent demand for equality in sea power with the United States and Great Britain.

The Japanese demanded the total abolition or drastic reduction of capital ships, aircraft carriers, and large cruisers, but demanded freedom to construct

M'GRADY ARRIVES NEW ORLEANS FOR I. L. A. CONFERENCE

MEDIATOR REFUSES COMMENT ON STRIKE SITUATION BEFORE SESSION

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 9.—(P)—Arriving here from Houston, Texas, where he mediated the International Longshoremen's Association strike, Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, conferred today with labor leaders and shipping men on the New Orleans situation where the I. L. A. has been under strike orders since Oct. 1, seeking recognition.

Prior to completion of the conference McGrady said he had nothing to say on the controversy or strike settlement plans. He is a member of the federal mediation board appointed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt to mediate the Gulf Coast longshoremen's dispute.

McGrady was met here by Ross, special representative of the American Federation of Labor, Captain Frank T. L. of the manager of the Louisiana Steamship Company, and Holborn, Gulf

The prisoner now is in the "death house" at Trenton.

In asking the supreme court to act, the attorneys had contended the celebrated Fleming trial resembled a "circus" and the defendant had been denied a fair trial.

They criticized the judge and the prosecuting attorneys and said the daily presence of Charles A. Lindbergh, father of the slain infant, "unduly influenced" the jury.

Given Constitutional Rights.
Replying, New Jersey had said Hauptmann had been given all his constitutional rights and the case was no reason for the high tribunal to pass on the controversy.

Let state law take its course, was its plea.

Hauptmann was convicted unanimously by the Flemington jury. The 13 judges of the court of errors and appeals, the highest state tribunal, unanimously affirmed that action.

The ruling was given just after the court had read a number of opinions.

"The orders of the court appear upon the list certified by the chief justice and filed with the clerk and will not be announced orally."

Immediately mimeographed copies of the orders were distributed to newspapermen sitting at desks in front of the courtroom.

Before the starting of AAA arguments, a number of attorneys were admitted to supreme court practice.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Dec. 9.—(P)—Al Masters, Stanford graduate manager, announced today that every one of the 84,474 seats in Pasadena's Rose Bowl had been sold for the New Year's Day football game between Stanford and Southern Methodist.

"My Pasadena office telephone me that they haven't a seat but that applications are pouring in by the thousands," Masters said.

"They told me the place was called up and the call at the post office away our mail; they were being swamped."

Masters said the game was opened last night that never before in history had been experienced.

"Just as the game was about to start, the mail was being swamped."

As for the game, Masters said it was a "great game."

UNITED FRANCO-BRITISH FRONT DEMANDS MUSSOLINI SHOW HIS HAND

PEEDY PEACE IN EAST AFRICA OR WAR EUROPE FORECAST EVENTS OF NEXT THIRTY- SIX HOURS EXPECTED DE- TERMINE WAR DURATION

By DEVON FRANCIS
Associated Press Foreign Staff.
Premier Mussolini told the Italian senate today that "Italian interests, both African and European, will be defended strenuously."
His 59-word address, heard also by the cabinet and representatives of the Royal House, came after France and Great Britain were said to have formed a "united front" in demanding that Italy show her hand in her war with Ethiopia.
The fascist chief made no mention of a peace plan reported to have been reached between France and Britain, which, an authoritative London source said, would be considered by the British cabinet at an extraordinary session.
The British government, was represented as having definite hope the new plan would bring a response from Mussolini.
A speedy East African peace or a possible European war, informed Italian sources said, may hang on the Premier's reaction to proposals for peace drafted by London and Paris.
New Terms Offered.
The terms for ending hostilities were described by French officials as going beyond anything previously offered the militant Italian dictator to force a showdown. Great Britain, it was said, had made marked concessions.
Events of the next 36 hours were expected to define the duration of the campaign in the African kingdom.
The Franco-British solidarity, in sharp contrast to the widely divergent views of the Italian campaign evidenced on the two sides of the English Channel at the start of the war, "extended far beyond the Italo-Ethiopian conflict," diplomatic sources in Paris said.
News from Italian and Ethiopian bivouacs was punctuated by unofficial reports of casualties and a dispute in army circles at Addis Ababa.
Many Reported Killed.
A Reuters (British) dispatch from the Ethiopian capital said unofficial reports related 850 Ethiopians and 700 Italian Somalis were killed in a battle north of Dolo, on the southern front.

All Belgian officers connected with the Ethiopian army turned in their resignations today in Addis Ababa because of a clash of views with high Ethiopian officials, threatening to leave soon unless the dispute was settled.
Government sources said four Italian planes flew over Dessye, the field headquarters of Emperor Haile Selassie, again today, but dropped no bombs. Last week's bombardments there were attended by heavy casualties. Two other Italian planes were reported to have circled Daggah Bur, on the southern front.
Many residents of the Ethiopian capital said they heard the Italian radio station at Asmara, Eritrea, broadcasting reports Addis Ababa would be bombed. They began digging the trenches.
An Italian official communiqué said one Italian officer had been killed in bombardments by fascist war planes of Ethiopian camps in the northern and southern fronts.
Peace Proposals.
Briefly, the proposals for peace drawn up by Great Britain and France—understood to have been transmitted in substance to Mussolini—already encompassed Italy's holding the northwestern Tigre Province, including historic Aduwa but not Ethiopia's sacred city of Aksum.
On Mussolini's reaction to the proffer was expected to hinge decision as to the imposition of the threatened oil embargo against Italy by the League of Nations.
Diplomatic quarters considered the Italian Premier's apparently more conciliatory mood in his address to the Chamber of Deputies last week than he had been heretofore. Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia already has reportedly to have asked a dignitary of the Coptic Christian Church to intercede for peace.
Peace by Christmas.
In Rome, although Mussolini previously turned his back on proposals similar to those drafted by France and Great Britain as a basis for peace negotiations, some diplomats talked of peace by Christmas.
French and British officials indicated their accord extended to all European questions as well as to the East African dispute. A copy of it was taken to London for Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's approval before its official presentation to Rome, Haile Selassie and the League of Nations.
While word was awaited from Mussolini, on another diplomatic front the East African war and League nations against Italy complicated the opening of the naval conference in London.
The Mediterranean, with France refusing to grant parity to Italy, and the general questions of sanctions brought up incident to the African war helped make the outlook for agreement among the powers represented at London rather bleak.
Desate Attack Defended.
At the front lines, where only sporadic activity has taken place for weeks, the Italian high command was quoted in advices to Rome as saying it had a right to launch aerial attacks on Dessye because it was a military center, armed and defended. The Ethiopian government denied it was a fortified town.
Informed Italian sources said the swift aerial fighters, who last week twice swooped down on Dessye dropping a "rain of death" in bombs and bullets, were acting against time, seeking to confuse the Ethiopians before the spring rains and before further league penalties could cut into fascist operations.
It Duce today was scheduled to address the Italian senate, and his words informed sources in Rome said, could mean either a speedy East African peace or a possible European war.
League Council Convoiced.
GENEVA, Dec. 8.—(P)—A special session of the Council of the League of Nations was convened today for Dec. 17.
Many observers thought the Italo-Ethiopian situation would be considered, although it was announced the primary purpose of the meeting was to discuss the transfer of some 25,000 Assyrians from Iraq to Syria.
In League circles it was widely asserted that the Ethiopian situation had reached a crisis.

right of an American citizen" to take immediately.
"You know you were sent here to dynamite this meeting and I'm not going to let you do it," Berry said quietly from the platform.
"You're an unqualified liar," Haake roared back.
"You're another, and if you come up here I'll make you eat it, eat it, eat it," Berry retorted.
Confusion resulted from the delegates leaving the hall and roars of "Sit down!" from the labor delegation stopped any further exchange. Berry stayed on the platform and Haake on the floor.

The confusion lessened somewhat as numbers of the delegates withdrew for round-table discussions scheduled to proceed after Berry's address telling the delegates the conference was in their hands.
Just before the opening, the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association joined six other industrial groups in declining to participate.
In a letter addressed to Berry, the lumber association said it did not regard the conference as "timely, or likely to contribute to industrial recovery, stability or progress."

another round of applause from the convention.
He added to this attack the emphatic words "that's what we propose to end in America."
Postmaster General Farley, the chairman of the Democratic National committee, joined the President here and sat on the platform with Mayor Kelly.
Emphasizing with raised voice his convention that "forty eight separate sovereign states, acting each as a separate unit, never were able and never will be able to legislate or to administer individual laws adequately to balance the agricultural life of a nation so greatly dependent on nationally grown crops of many kinds," he was interrupted again by applause.
Applause also greeted assertion that a "relative purchasing power of below fifty per cent has now moved up today to better than ninety per cent."
Mr. Roosevelt planned to remain for an early lunch with convention officials before entering for South Bend, Ind., where he will be at a special convocation this afternoon at which he will be awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at Notre Dame.
Speaking of employment benefits in industry as a result of better farm conditions, he said: "You're not the only fellows who understand this. The city fellows are beginning to understand it, too."
CHICAGO, Dec. 8.—(P)—President Roosevelt declared today that "political profiteers" are seeking to stir up city people in opposition to the New Deal farm program, which he defended at almost the same hour the it approached its crucial test in the supreme court.
The program aimed, he said, "to stop the rule of tooth and claw that threw farmers into bankruptcy."
The confusion lessened somewhat as numbers of the delegates withdrew for round-table discussions scheduled to proceed after Berry's address telling the delegates the conference was in their hands.

cy, or turned them virtually into serfs.
As evidence that it is succeeding, he asserted that farm income "has increased nearly $3,000,000,000 in the past two and a half years."
Endorsing the new Canadian trade treaty, he said: "Agriculture, far from being crucified by this agreement, as some have told you, actually gains from it."
While Mr. Roosevelt addressed the American Farm Bureau Federation, the supreme court at Washington moved to open oral arguments today in the Hoosac Mills case, in which constitutionality of the whole AAA is challenged and defended.
Evidently striking at his opponents' contention that AAA is an unwarranted encroachment of federal power into the domain of the states (a point at issue in the Hoosac case), the president said the 48 states, acting separately, are powerless to attain a balanced agriculture.
Seamless Web.
Picturing the whole American economy as a "seamless web," he declared that "higher farm prices conferred 'net benefits' on consumers, though he hit many retail prices as 'too high.'"
"Lifting prices on the farm up to the level where the farmer and his family can live is opposed heavily by the depression," he said.
"It is they and their henchmen who are doing their best to ferment city people against the farmers and the farm program."
"It is that type of political profiteer who seeks to discredit the vote in favor of a continued corn hog program by comparing your desire for a fair price for the farmer to the appetite of hogs for corn."
Speaking in the stockyards amphitheatre, he proclaimed the aim of government as justice for all, in city and country.
In his endorsement of the reciprocal trade agreement with Canada, he referred to "dispensers of discord" and "calamity howlers."
"Just as I am confident," he said, "that the great masses of city people are fit-minded, so I am sure that the great majority of American farmers will be fair in their judgment of the new treaty."
"If the calamity howlers should happen to be right, you have every assurance that Canada and the United States will join in correcting inequalities, but I do not believe for a single moment that the calamity howlers are right."
"We export more agricultural products to Canada than we have imported from her."

"We shall continue to do so, for the very simple reason that the United States with its larger area of agricultural land, its more varied climate and its vastly greater population, produces far more of most agricultural products, including animal products, vegetables and fruit, than does Canada."
Proof is in Eating.
"In the case of the few reductions that have been made, quiet limitations are set on the amount that may be brought in at the lower rates."
"The proof of this particular pudding is in the eating; the best way to judge the new accord is to observe how it works."
"Analyze and remember the source and the motives of the objections. Remember, too, the old saying, 'It all depends on whose baby has the measles.'"
Mr. Roosevelt developed the theme that "farm prosperity cannot exist without city prosperity, and city prosperity cannot exist without farm prosperity."
Recalling to the farmers "your own experience of three and four years ago," he said that in the building of purchasing power, justice and common sense had demanded that his administration start with agriculture.
Agriculture Threatened.
"What you wanted and what you have endeavored to achieve," he said, "was to put an end to the destructive forces that were threatening American agriculture."
"We sought to stop the rule of tooth and claw that threw farmers into bankruptcy or turned them virtually into serfs, forced them to let their buildings, fences and machinery deteriorate, made them rob their soil of its God-given fertility, deprived their sons and daughters of a decent opportunity on the farm."
"Those days, I trust, the organized power of the nation has put an end forever."
Calling speculation "one of the greatest curses of American life," the president said an increase in farm income had stimulated many lines of business.
Purchasing Power Increased.
"Let the record say that a relative purchasing power (of the farmer) of below 50 per cent has now moved up today to better than 90 per cent," he said.
"Goods are moving, and as goods are moving, so is money moving once more, and as it flows millions of farm and city families are getting a bigger share of the national income."
"I think it is safe to say that although prices for farm products truckloads of police, was shot through the chest and was said to be in a serious condition.

Some reports said he was shot by Constable Markens, a British member of the Egyptian police force, which includes a number of Britons.
Several thousand students, well supplied with rocks, barricaded themselves at the new Rhoda hospital and defied the police after a stiff fight in a street.
Officers fired a round of bird-shot in an attempt to drive away rioters who set fire to a bus.
A survey of a mile-long street in the Rhoda section revealed that every street lamp was shattered and that the rioters had set fire to the escaping gas at each post.
The outbreak was the latest in a fresh series of anti-British demonstrations by Egyptian nationalists, clamoring for an end to British influence in the affairs of this nominally independent North African kingdom.
Several persons had been injured yesterday, including one British officer, when police and students clashed over an attempt by authorities to prevent a student conference at the medical college.
The students turned the college fire hoses on the police and pelted the officers with stones before that outbreak ended.
Later, crowds of students marched through the streets crying, "Down with Britain."
show many increases over depression lows, the farm program instead of burdening consumers has actually given them net benefits," Mr. Roosevelt declared that "we are regaining a more fair balance among the groups that constitute the nation," and added:
"It is a lasting progress because the people of the nation have learned more about effective co-operation in the past two and a half years than in the previous 25 years."

AGENTS UNNECESSARY TO GET PENSIONS AT TIME FUNDS READY

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR SAYS EMPLOYING ATTORNEYS CANNOT AID

AUSTIN, Dec. 7.—(Spl.)—State Auditor Orville S. Carpenter, recently named executive director of the old age assistance commission effective February 14, declared this week that no one, regardless of race or color, would be discriminated against, and stated that old people will be able to get pensions without assistance from agents.

"Many inquiries regarding our policy toward negroes and Mexicans have been received. Inquiries have asked whether or not members of these races would receive the same amount of pension as members of other races. We want it clearly understood that there will be no discrimination against anyone because of race or color," Mr. Carpenter declared.

"No attorneys, unofficial agents, or firms will be needed to help old people obtain pensions. Applications will be handled through local agents. These have not been named.

"Old people will be able to get their pensions July 1, 1936, if funds are available. Application forms will be prepared February 14, 1936, and will be given to local agents. All applications will be handled through local men; however, the law provides that an applicant can appeal to the commission if he or she is turned down.

"Pensions will be given those who are entitled to them if and when funds have been provided. The new law does not go into effect until February 14," State Auditor Carpenter explained.

Mr. Carpenter expects to visit Washington this week and have the Texas pension law approved by the social security board. From Washington he will travel to New York and study the state pension system there, which is the largest and one of the oldest systems in the United States.

NEW STATE HIGHWAY PROPOSED TO JOIN U. S. HIGHWAY 75

BROWN COUNTY WANTS AID IN PRESSING INTANGIBLE TAX SUIT

An effort to get the Texas Highway Commission to designate a road from Mabank to Highway 75, five miles north of Corsicana as a state highway via Porter's Bluff on Trinity river, Chatfield and Tupelo is under way and an organization meeting of those interested was held here Saturday. C. E. McWilliams, county judge, advised the commissioners' court at its regular meeting Monday morning. J. J. Kelt of Chatfield was reported elected chairman of the organization.

Claims were allowed except as noted on the claim docket. A communication from officials of Brown county was read and discussed. The letter is asking that Navarro county co-operate to the amount of $54.75 in the court costs and expense of an injunction suit brought by the Atlantic Pipeline Company vs. Brown county, restraining the collection of intangible taxes. The suit was brought in U. S. Federal district court and a decision favoring the oil company was returned. Brown county, an oil center, is appealing the case to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals and is asking other oil counties to co-operate in the expense of the appeal. The Texas tax board and the Texas attorney general's department is also aiding in the appeal.

It was brought out that the intangible tax in Navarro county for state and county ad valorem purposes amounts to $7,169.84, about 40 per cent of which goes to the county and the remainder to the state. Definite decision of the court was postponed until the special meeting slated for Monday, Dec. 23.

Concrete Spillway
Of Kerens Reservoir Reported Damaged

Considerable damage was done to the concrete spillway at the newly-completed Kerens municipal lake east of Kerens during the week-end, although the exact amount of damage had not been ascertained Monday morning, according to County Commissioner A. W. McClung, who was in Corsicana.

The hard rains of the week-end caused the water to rush through the spillway several feet deep and a portion of the spillway was undermined, although no serious damage to the new reservoir furnishing the Kerens water supply was done.

BACK TAXES OR NEW TAXES

Collection of back taxes in local communities would end the need for new state taxes, declares a member of the Ohio tax commission. It probably is not so simple as that, but more than $200,000,000 of delinquent taxes would go far toward meeting acute local needs.

Some progress has already been made in this universal effort to collect delinquent taxes. Many of the people who got behind in the first years of the depression took advantage of a state law permitting refinancing of back taxes on a basis of installment payments over a period of years. Others have started to pay up as their own incomes improved with improving business. There remains a large amount of delinquent tax money which, if it could be collected within the next few months, would help to solve a few problems.

There is a similar situation in many states. A vigorous campaign to get in all or part of the unpaid taxes of the last five or six years ought to be profitable to any community.

TWO KINDS OF PROGRESS

It is a striking coincidence that the United States should have been sending the China Clipper on its initial voyage across the Pacific at the same time that Japan was moving to annex North China.

On one side, a symbol of peace and lawful, civilized progress; on the other side defiance of international law and ethics, a renewal of the old piratical seizure of territory and trade privileges which all the powers have been guilty of in the past, but which the world lately has labored to prevent.

It is hard to say what will come of either of these efforts. But possibly the flight of this modern air Clipper with its message of good-will and intelligent service to Manila and Canton will rank in future history, above the coup by which Japanese militarism fastens its grip on Hopei.

NEXT YEAR'S BUILDING

Stewart McDonald, federal housing administrator, says more than 75,000 homes are being built this year, surpassing expectations. The movement has grown stronger right through the year. In October there were issued permits for 8,574 new houses, against 3,350 in the same month last year.

He predicts that bank funds released for home-building will be quadrupled next spring. If the banks do this, it will mean an immense contribution to sound money and progress. It is money, not public credit, that ought to be used for the homes needed by the people and for lost time.

It is presumable that the reports in this connection are as fast as they can be made up.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1935, Edgar A. Guest.)

ORPHANS OF THE LIVING
We think of orphans only as the little girls and lads
Who haven't any mothers or who haven't any dads.
They are grouped with other children, and in groups they're put to bed.
With some stranger, paid to listen, when their little prayers are said.
All the grownups look with pity on such lonely children small
And declare to be an orphan is the saddest fate of all.
But sometimes I look about me and in sorrow hang my head
As I gaze on something sadder than the orphan's of the dead.
For more pitiful and tragic, as the long days come and go,
Are the orphans of the parents they are not allowed to know.
They're the orphans of the living, left alone to romp and play,
From their fathers and their mothers by ambition shut away.
They have fathers who are busy and so weighted down with cares
That they haven't time to listen to a little child's affairs.
They have mothers who imagine life could give them if it would Something richer, something better than the joys of motherhood.
So their children learn from strangers and by stranger's hands are fed,
And the nurse, for so much money, nightly sucks them into bed.
Lord, I would not grow so busy that I cannot drop my task
To answer every question which that child of mine can ask.
Let me never serve ambition here so selfishly, I pray,
That I cannot stop to listen to the things my children say.
For whatever cares beset them, let them know I'm standing by.
I don't want to make them orphans till the day I come to die.

ART OF BEING KIND

The old-fashioned "art of being kind," is really a fine art, comments Channing Pollock, popular American playwright, in the current Rotarian Magazine, and, he suggests, the Yuletide season provides an appropriate time to give it study and practice.

"I remember one 25th of December that was simply made for me," he writes, "by a soft, strange voice at the other end of a telephone wire that said, 'I'm afraid you've got the wrong number, but Merry Christmas all the same.' And in reverse, I remember countless other voices on phones that implied very definitely that I had deliberately asked for a wrong number, and conspired with the operator to pick one whose owner was in the bath."

"It's so easy to smile and to be agreeable, and even to do the small kindly thing, that I'm a little puzzled that it isn't a more common habit. One reason, I suppose, is that courtesy requires a two-way street. 'I don't excuse, but I do sympathize with the man who quit giving his seat to women in crowded subways after the 15th woman had taken it without a word of thanks. But here my wonder is at those 15—those 15,000 women. Dying, they should be condemned to an eternity of swaying floors with an infinity of straps just out of reach."

"I find," he continues, "I have a definite weakness for the policeman I saw lugging the basket of an old Jewish woman through the traffic of Canal Street, and the busy man who writes a long and courteous letter to the utter stranger in quest of information, and the cigar or drug clerk who leaves his counter to instruct a non-paying visitor in the use of a dial telephone."

"I think life would be easier if more of us liked people. All kinds of people, under all kinds of conditions and handicaps. I think our heaviest burdens would be lighter, and our important problems less worrisome, if we didn't have to carry so many little loads of thoughtlessness, and have our minds and hearts troubled by so many trifling rubs."

It's really quite easy to write a kind letter. It's easier still to say a kind word. Few of the things we have the opportunity of doing for other people really involve any very painful self-sacrifice. And the things of this sort we don't do sterilize our own souls, and harden our own paths. More than anything else in our journey through life, they rate us as first class, second class, or steerage."

The country would get better now if the question doctors didn't in making the patient's temperature.

DEATH TAKES NO HOLIDAY

By Chamberlain

NATIONAL MADNESS

It is inconceivable that Italy would have started the war of conquest against Ethiopia if she had foreseen that the League of Nations would crack down on her. It is inconceivable that Mussolini himself would have dared start any such adventure with the world leagued against him.

But the Duce was in a critical situation, with industry at home prostrated and growing unemployment, and the government budget steadily running behind, and his sole responsibility. This modern Caesar, too, was ambitious for conquest. Ever since he had forsaken his early Socialism for personal dictatorship, he had been moved by imperialistic dreams. He would make a modern empire. Italy should expand again across the Mediterranean lake. After that, perhaps in Europe and Asia.

It was a bold, ruthless gamble, and Mussolini has lost, and through him, possibly, the Italian nation is lost. For the leader's madness grows with desperation, and his people seem to turn mad with him, as Ethiopian resistance stiffens and the League stands firm.

The present oil problem presents the first big crisis. Wild threats come from Rome as the League powers ponder the problem of cutting off Italy's oil supply and thus cutting short her military operations. Italy will attack the British fleet. She will fight the world. A nation may run amuck.

THE RELIEF DILEMMA.

Starvation and taxation are two unpleasant things that have to be talked about. Employment grows, but there are still millions idle. The President has found it necessary to announce that people will not be allowed to starve this winter, either, even if prevention postpones the balancing of the federal budget.

The federal burden would be lighter if states and cities could or would assume their share of the load. But their credit, as a rule, is not so good as the government's, and some of them who could take care of their own people deliberately pass the buck.

WHY CHRISTMAS SEALS?

By the annual sale of a great many cheerful little Christmas Seals at a penny apiece, funds are raised all over the country for fighting tuberculosis. Money raised locally is used locally. The work done is varied, including prevention, treatment and education. Children and adults are taught that nutritious food, adequate sleep, fresh air and good mental hygiene help to build resistance against tuberculosis.

A committee in one area, reporting its year's achievements, tells of fluoroscopic examinations of high school pupils, establishment of a graduate school for training nurses in the case of tuberculosis, health camps for boys and girls and a wholesome spring clean-up. Similar work is done all over the country, much of it financed by the seal funds.

This is the 29th annual Christmas Seal sale. Real gains in treating and preventing tuberculosis have been made in that time. Increased effort is necessary now, however, to counteract the harmful effects of the depression which has handicapped so many families with less food and warmth and more worry.

Whether he takes one or 100, everyone who buys and uses the Christmas Seals helps to stamp out the white plague.

There are prophecies now that security prices will "hit the roof." If they do, they may find the SEC sitting there with a club.

Now the dream of adventurous tourists is to go round the world on one of those Air Clippers.

ATHENS, Dec. 6.—(Sp.)—Funeral services were held Friday afternoon for Geraldine Morrison, 17-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Morrison of Trinidad, whose death occurred Friday morning following an illness with rabies. Dallas specialists were summoned in a first effort to save the child's life after antirabies serum given Nov. 12, after the baby had been attacked by a pet bulldog, had failed.

A Trinidad physician, who had been attending the child, and other persons who had been at the bedside during the child's fatal illness, began taking antirabies serum Friday.

Fairfield has played a number of games this season, but the Freestone county boys were also hand-lapped at first by the indoor court.

Field outclassed the Bengals and were leading, 20-8, at the half-way mark. The Fairfield team, led by the evening with 12 points while Harding, Fairfield guard, and his mate, Kelly, were the outstanding players on the court. Harding accounted for 8 points while Kelly made six.

TALMADGE-KIRBY TO JOIN IN CALL DEMOCRAT REVOLT

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(P)—Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia announced today a formal call for a democratic convention similar to the "Grass Roots" meeting of the republicans will be issued within 10 days. The governor said that "John Henry Kirby of Houston, Texas, and I will issue the call jointly and we'll hold the meeting in Atlanta sometime in January."

Kirby is chairman of the "Southern committee to uphold the constitution," which was organized three months ago and which Governor Talmadge says now has a membership of 100,000 in 17 southern and border states. Governor Talmadge, outspoken critic of the administration, said the group was formed to combat "the departure of the present administration from democratic principles."

Kirby, said the governor, is a business man who does not hold any public office.

"I think he used to be in the legislature, though," he added.

TALMADGE FRIENDS WILLING TEST HIS PRIMARY STRENGTH

GEORGIA GOVERNOR WOULD BE ENTERED AGAINST ROOSEVELT

By GLENN RAMSEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATLANTA, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Confidence of their ground, close friends of Governor Eugene Talmadge indicated today they are willing to test his strength against that of President Roosevelt in a presidential preferential primary.

A source closely associated with the governor indicated Talmadge expects on the state democratic executive committee have about decided on holding such a primary early next year.

If this plan is carried out, it means the governor is so certain of his standing with the voters of Georgia that he won't attempt to have Georgia's delegates to the national convention selected by the committee, which Roosevelt supporters feared he might do.

During the year the governor had the committee purged of those described as "lukewarm" Talmadge supporters and observers concede he has sufficient backing in the committee to have it name the delegates.

Since that purge, however, an open revolt has arisen among certain members, led by Newt Morris of Marietta, Ga., against the governor's critics of the new deal.

A number of committeemen and committeewomen pledged their backing to call a primary if the majority of the committee decided against it.

The governor has refrained from comment about his future plans. But those who have watched Georgia political affairs are of the opinion that he has intended all along to carry his new deal fight direct to the voters.

Renewing his attacks on the administration in a nationwide radio talk at New York yesterday, Talmadge brought comment from observers that he has no intention of slackening up on his drive to prevent, if possible, the renomination of the president.

by the floodwaters. Raymond Wilkins, clerk for the Southern Pacific Lines, saw the body of a white man floating down the bayou while he and another man were cruising in a motorboat near the foot of Main street.

Wilkins said he and his companion tried to maneuver the boat so as to reach the body but were unable to do so because of the current.

Covered 100 City Blocks. Before starting to recede around daybreak, the bayou, a small stream which has its headwaters in the northern part of this county, covered more than 100 Houston city blocks, approximately seven and one-half feet higher than in the disastrous flood of 1926.

As Buffalo and other bayous slipped slowly back toward the Gulf, the Harris county Red Cross already was taking care of approximately 300 homeless. Several thousand others were forced to abandon their homes but were cared for by relatives or friends.

Terming the flood a "disaster such as we have never known in Houston," W. A. Padlock, chairman of the Harris county Red Cross chapter urged generous contributions for relief of the homeless.

Schools Closed. All schools in the North Side and Heights sections were closed but authorities said they likely would be re-opened tomorrow.

School officials were having considerable trouble filling vacancies in school in other sections caused by teachers who live in the Heights and North Side being unable to get to work.

White Oak Bayou had receded from Shady Acres, leaving the area in a coat of mud and debris. A. J. Krus, grocer, said he was doing a "land office" business in soaps, washing powders and scrub brushes from the back door. The front is piled high with groceries and counters.

More than 500 telephones in the flooded areas were reported dead. About 15 large PEX switchboards were out of order, including those at the Auditorium, Brazos and Macatee Hotels, all surrounded by water.

Ben Calhoun, president of the Houston Insurance Exchange, said that all merchants had little, if any flood insurance.

of the sovereignty or quasi-sovereignty of Wisconsin and an impairment of its public policy, which the state is privileged to redress as a suitor in the courts.

"We are not concerned at this time with the applicable rule in situations where the central government is at liberty (as it is under the commerce clause when such a purpose is disclosed) to exercise a power that is exclusive as well as paramount."

Counsel for the Wisconsin banking department argued the provision for shift to federal control, on vote of 51 per cent of the stockholders, was an invasion of state rights.

Contended Congress Had Power. Attorneys for the Home Loan Bank board had contended that congress has "supreme and exclusive power over the national fiscal system."

They said the legislation was necessary to promote the "general welfare," a point also made on behalf of the AAA.

The litigation grew out of the application of the Hopkins Federal Savings and Loan Association, the Reliance Building and Loan Association and the Northern Building and Loan Association for a federal charter. The Wisconsin banking department took legal action to prevent it.

The Home Loan Act was passed to aid distressed home owners meet their indebtedness. Twelve regional home loan banks were established to make advances on mortgages held by shift and home-financing institutions which joined the system.

Justice Cardozo delivered the opinion. He said the section was a "trespass" on state rights.

NAVAL

submarines, destroyers and small craft. Davis told the full conference that if no reduction was possible President Roosevelt recommended strongly continuance of present fleet limitations.

Falling all else, Davis, chief of the American delegation, issued a "frank and friendly" statement of views to discover the paths of mutual understanding, to prevent a naval race.

Davis' address followed a conciliatory welcoming speech by Great Britain's prime minister, Stanley Baldwin, calling upon principal seapowers to yield some of their demands in an attempt to "avert the calamity of unrestricted naval competition."

The American exposition preceded the exchange of the positions of other delegation chiefs.

Japanese Demand Equality. The chief Japanese delegate, Admiral Osami Nagano, followed with a request for a "just and fair agreement on disarmament," setting forth thus his nation's demands for equality with Great Britain and the United States in Naval strength.

The object of this conference, we understand is to conclude a new comprehensive treaty of naval disarmament with a view to regulating the naval strengths of the powers concerned from the year 1937," Admiral Nagano said.

"Such a new treaty, in the view of the Japanese government, should be based upon the fundamental idea of setting up among the great powers of the world, a common limit of naval armaments to be fixed as low as possible, which they shall not be allowed to exceed simultaneously."

Offensive forces must be drastically reduced and ample defensive forces provided, so as to bring about a substantial measure of disarmament, thus securing a state of non-aggression and non-aggression among the powers."

Climaxed Year of Effort. The opening of the conference climaxed a year of British diplomatic efforts to mend the wreckage of last year's futile conversations to discover a formula for an agreement to replace the Washington and London limitations treaties.

Despite the strenuous explorations, the preliminary exchanges of the last few days and the conciliatory tones of the opening address, the outlook for conference success still was dark.

Informed naval forces attributed this pessimism to the Japanese demand for equality, to replace its ratio of 2 to 1 for the United States and Britain under present limitations; French and Italian rivalry in the Mediterranean; sanctions developments in the application of League of Nations penalties on Italy, tension arising from the North China autonomy movement and other controversies.

The United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan were represented, as well as India, and the British dominions.

May Invite Others. Prime Minister Baldwin, welcoming the delegates, made a reference to the possibility that Germany and Soviet Russia might be asked later to become parties to any new treaty.

The greater in that the hope of agreement with the naval powers not represented here must necessarily depend on the result of our laborious negotiations.

His proposed retention of principles of the Washington and London treaties, but with modifications to take into account altered international circumstances and the needs of individual powers.

Davis, without direct reference to Japanese demands for equality, also urged continued limitation of sea armaments, advancing President Roosevelt's proposal for a maximum 20 per cent decrease.

Davis, the president's "ambassador at large," read to the conference a letter addressed to him by Mr. Roosevelt, Oct. 5, 1934, bore preliminary conversations between Britain, the United States and Japan, in which the president said:

"I suggest a total tonnage reduction of 20 per cent below existing treaty tonnage. If it is possible to agree on this percentage, Japan seeks from the British a Japanese lesser reduction—15 per cent or 10 per cent or 5 per cent. The United States must adhere to the high purpose of progressive reduction."

The president, taking a firm stand against any new treaty calling for larger navies, instructed Davis:

"Only if all else fails should you seek to secure agreement providing for the maintenance and extension of existing treaties over as long a period as possible."

After the opening addresses, the conference was to organize a general committee, the delegates beginning their efforts to reconcile their positions.

No regional committees were appointed at the start, the British hoping thus to prevent the Mediterranean, Pacific and other political situations from overshadowing the main purposes.

Openly, the conference, convened by Great Britain, opened promptly at 10:30 a. m., 4:30 a. m., Central Standard time, with Prime Minister Baldwin welcoming the delegates.

Informed sources said that prospects for its reaching its goal—a new agreement to replace the existing treaties expiring in 1936 as a result of Japan's denunciation—was the darkest for any disarmament conference since the world war.

World peace and the interests of all nations were directly at stake.

The conference may last three weeks or three months, depending on whether the delegates can prevent the generally predicted early breakdown.

A ruinously expensive shipbuilding race, perhaps imperiling peace, was recognized by the delegates as the probable result of any failure by the conference to prevent their "misuse."

"We hope unrestricted submarine warfare may in the future be averted," he asserted.

Nagano's address for the Japanese, less than 20 words in

MODERN ELECTRIC SIGN INSTALLED BY BIG FOUR COMPANY

A modern, colorful and attractive neon sign 18 feet tall and 8 feet wide at the base, was installed Saturday at the Big Four Shoe store and has attracted considerable and favorable comment.

The Freeman Shoe is also advertised by the sign.

It is of off-center shape, having a background of polished black porcelain enamel and the principal trim is of polished aluminum, which harmonizes with the modern black Carrera glass and aluminum trim of the Big Four's newly installed front.

The sign is said to be the second largest of its kind and one of the most attractive in the state, and its installation completes an extensive campaign by the Big Four store to make it the store of the most attractive in the state.

length, was considered generally to be surprisingly conciliatory.

The French figuratively threw a bombshell into the conference by raising immediately the question of limitation of land and air armaments.

Pledging France to drastic limitations and even reduction in maximum tonnage and of ships' calibers in various classes of ships, Corbin, French ambassador in London, said nevertheless the total tonnage issue "cannot be studied without raising the general problem of the three categories of armaments."

A solution of the tonnage issue, he said, also calls for maintenance of the reciprocal condition of general security.

Nagano supported Baldwin's plea for humanized use of submarines, asserting "dictates of humanity demand that crews of merchant ships in time of war should be safeguarded against the perils of being cast adrift on an open sea."

Italy remained non-committal in its position at the present party, being represented as an observer, but made a passing reference to the sanctions situation.

Dino Grandi, Italian ambassador in London, said generally that "you will appreciate that my government is compelled to take carefully into account the present situation which has been created by the attitude of many states belonging to the League of Nations with regard to my country."

Dominions Back Britain. The representatives of Canada, Australia, the Irish Free State, India, New Zealand, South Africa lined up with Britain in the hope that a new agreement would be reached.

Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary, was chosen president of the conference. Viscount Monsell, first lord of the admiralty, was named vice president and presided in the absence of Sir Samuel, who is resting in Switzerland.

Davis pledged the United States not to take the initiative in any naval competition, and the United States delegation will co-operation toward "a mutually beneficial solution."

"We want no naval increase," he said. "We want limitation and reduction. We have no wish to exceed treaty limits."

"Whatever our approach, our objective must be to insure that in the difficult and trying years ahead of us the essential balance between our fleets, which during past years has proved such a guarantee of peace, and stability should be maintained by means of a mutual agreement, rather than by expensive and dangerous competition which can profit no one but must harm all."

France Adheres With Proposal. France adhered to the British proposal to conclude a protocol, open to the signatures of all naval powers, concerning use of submarines in time of war and their treatment of merchant ships.

Britain, the United States and Japan are already bound by this agreement under the treaty of 1930.

Baldwin announced that as a result of two-year preliminary discussions leading up to today's conference he was able to announce France and Italy were prepared to join in a submarine restriction agreement.

The opening session adjourned at 11:45 a. m., with the delegates to meet again in the Clarence House tomorrow at 10:30 a. m., 4:30 a. m., Central Standard time.

save him from the electric chair in spite of the adverse ruling of the supreme court of the United States which today denied Hauptmann's request for a review of his Fleming trial.

"I'm disappointed at the news," C. Lloyd Fisher, one of Hauptmann's attorneys, said at his Fleming office today.

"But there is this to be said: The request for a review was based entirely on the record of the trial. The court, therefore, could consider only such things as lay before them."

"The decision of the court will not have a very great bearing on which we are going. We shall carry on our investigation."

Asked if this indicated that new evidence had been discovered, Fisher said it did.

He said he will confer shortly with Egbert Rosecrans and Frederick A. Pope, Hauptmann's other attorneys.

Pope received the news without comment.

Rosecrans said he would advise Hauptmann of the verdict this afternoon.

Earlier, the attorney had conferred with Governor Harold G. Hoffman, presumably about the Hauptmann case.

The governor, a member of the court of pardons, disclosed last week he had visited Hauptmann in the death house on the night of October 17 and that Ellis H. Barker, Burlington county detective chief, believed Hauptmann innocent.

A new execution date will be fixed for Hauptmann within the next week, legal authorities here believed.

The clerk of the court of errors and appeals said the trial record would be forwarded to Justice Thomas V. Frenchard immediately upon receipt of official word from Washington, expected within a few days. The law requires that the execution date be not earlier than four weeks nor more than eight weeks after the sentencing judge's decision.

Once a new date has been fixed, Hauptmann's attorneys may make application to the board of pardons for clemency.

Attorney General David T. Wentz, chief of the prosecution forces at the Fleming trial, received the news of the supreme court action while appearing at a trial in Freehold. He refused to comment.

NEW YORK, Dec. 9.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's loyal wife, Anna, today received the news of her husband's rebuff by the U. S. supreme court calmly and with this re-avowal of faith in his innocence.

In granting this measure of autonomy, the Central Chinese government was reported authoritatively to have made three stipulations—that Nanking would continue to control foreign affairs, financial, military and judiciary matters; that all appointments would be made by Nanking; and that there would be no actual independence for the area.

Japanese authorities described the Nanking stipulations in the northern settlement as "face-saving" for the central government, which would enjoy virtual autonomy in foreign, financial and military affairs.

This settlement was reached in the controversy arising from original demands for separation from the central government of all five northern provinces, with their 95,000,000 people. Hope and Chahar provinces have a population of more than 30,000,000.

No machinery was provided to prevent the new courts from doing exactly as it pleased under Japanese protection and guidance.

ASTRINGENT MASKS

MASKS FOR FACES

An astringent mask to tighten lax muscles is an easy thing to have when you follow Miss Forbes' directions for making and putting it on.

If you want to make a coarse skin fine, or to tighten up lax and draggy muscles, try an astringent face mask. You can buy them in tin containers in the shops, or in glass jars. You can have paste or else liquid astringent masks. You can pay a lot of money for them or else you can use your own wits, save your money, and make your face mask at home yourself.

Here is a good one: Buy your self some powder, 1. oatmeal, or as it is sometimes called, toilet oatmeal. Take two tablespoonsful of this, mix to a paste with either witch-hazel or eau de Cologne, or just water. When you have a stiff paste, beat up the white of an egg—a small egg—and do not beat too stiffly, just enough to get rid of the gooeyness. (Not a word, I know, but more descriptive than "viscid quality.") Anyhow, spread this on the face, which you have first cleansed with a light cream or oil, and let it dry. It tightens in the most marvellous way. You can positively feel it pull up the muscles and stretch out the skin to smooth those wrinkles.

Lie down while it dries if you can. This causes the muscles to relax, and relaxation is an essential part of any face treatment. Let the mask stay on for 15 minutes; you can even keep it on for 20 if you are not in a hurry. Wash off with warm water, and then give the skin a thick cold cream. The mask is drying, and the skin needs lubricating after using it. Wipe this off, and if it is bedtime, your treatment is finished. If you are going out, put your powder on over the trace of oil still in the skin, which makes a perfectly good base for face powder.

Mrs. L.—You should have a doctor to care for "acne," and he will direct you in every particular. Diet is important in such cases, beside the local skin treatment. I doubt that you could cure the trouble yourself by following up what someone else did who had the same thing. There will always be differences in the conditions and also in the persons affected, and it is best to have someone who knows exactly how to treat the disease intelligently. The sooner you can have the trouble cured, the less danger of blemishes later. Meantime, avoid rich foods that heat the system and keep to vegetables and fruit, principally.

News Items From Fairfield Area; Agent Will Move

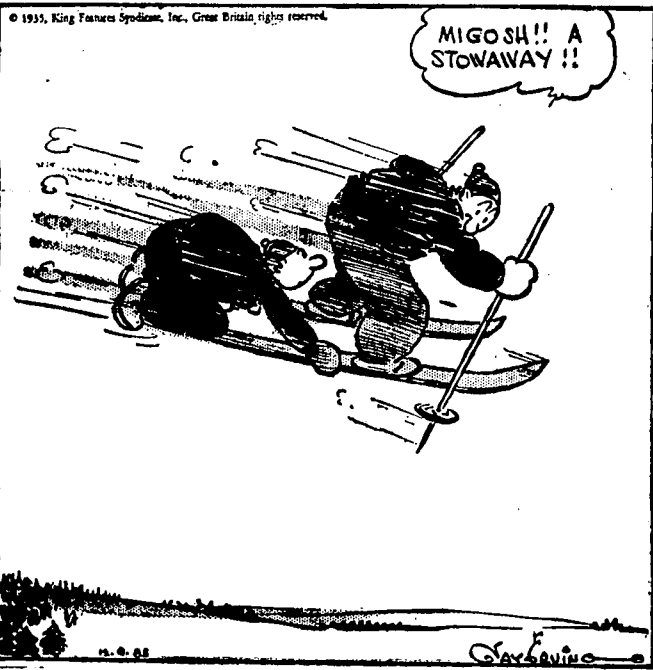

FAIRFIELD, Dec. 7. (Sp.)—Axtex Courts, on Highway 75 in Fairfield were opened this week. The Court is composed of six apartments, each with garage, bath room, running water and everything necessary for a high class place. The buildings are of Spanish design, built of native rock, and are probably the best and the finest appointed tourist camps between Dallas and Houston.

County Agent W. B. Frederick and family will move in a few days to Goliad county where Mr. Frederick has been employed as county agent. Mr. W. B. Richards has been transferred here from Newton, and his assistant, J. A. Lawrence, comes from Rusk. G. D. Boyd, Mr. Frederick's assistant has been transferred to Rusk.

Wortham Men Guests. The Fairfield Business and Civic club met Tuesday night at the Cook Hotel where a delightful dinner was enjoyed by a fair attendance. Out of the appointing committees to look after the musical Christmas tree and lights, and discussing various projects, little business was transacted. Appreciated guests for the evening were Oliver Burleson, Jess Keeling and Postmaster Tom Hood, of Wortham.

School Campus Beautified. The school faculty and student body were treated to a most pleasant surprise this week. Returning to work after the Thanksgiving holidays, they were greeted by the loveliest array of evergreens and campus landscaping one could wish.

We Believe In Corsicana And Navarro County

IN PRESENTING THIS PROGRAM OF "FIRMS WHO BELIEVE IN CORSICANA AND NAVARRO COUNTY," THE CORSICANA DAILY SUN AND THE CORSICANA SEMI-WEEKLY LIGHT ALSO GIVES TO ITS READERS, THE SEVENTH OF A SERIES OF ARTICLES IN WHICH IT IS PROPOSED TO DEAL WITH THE INDUSTRIAL, EDUCATIONAL, AGRICULTURAL, AND OTHER ADVANTAGES THAT ARE TO BE FOUND HERE.

SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION IS NEEDED-----

Experience has taught us the value of team work in play, in education, in government, and is now teaching us the need of it in industry, agriculture, and religion. Many of our difficulties today are due to the attempt to make adjustments to this new and growing of every man for himself and the devil take the hindmost. Men of capital, as well as of labor, are repudiating this philosophy.

It has been proven over and over again that cooperation multiplies and hallows the energies of the individual. But it does even more than this—it preserves the new energy thus evolved as a permanent asset to the organization served. The cooperative principle and habit is really the cement of society; cooperation develops social relations. As society advances from barbarism to civilization, men compete less and cooperate more. The principle of competition is the law of the survival of the fittest but it is not the highest law of civilized society; another and higher principle. The principle of good will, and mutual help, begins at length to operate. Cooperation converts the industrial enterprise of employers and employees into a moral organism in which all the various talents, services and desires of the competent individuals are fused into a community of purpose and endeavor. The great truth of the absolute unity of human interests, which involves the impossibility that any social class should rise by depressing another social class, is the cornerstone of Christian ethics and of a Christian social order. While certain personal advantages may be gained by competing with our fellowmen for the prizes of life, both history and experience show that it would be better if we would cooperate with them for mutual benefit.
